

Stef Murray (She/Her/Hers)

Chief Diversity & Inclusion Officer and Vice President, Human Resources
Schnitzer Steel Industries, Inc.

Stef Murray has over 34 years of professional experience including 28 years of people leadership, 25 years of Human Resources and 10 years of Operations/P&L management. Stef's blended background has served her well as it has allowed her to quickly relate to internal business clients, assess their people and organizational needs and determine how human resources can contribute to positive bottom-line business results. Stef is a graduate from Northwestern University with a degree in Electrical Engineering and began her career as a Manufacturing Supervisor at Procter & Gamble. She quickly learned how critical excellent people leadership skills were and the impact that a leader had on individual and organizational success. She grew her human resources career at Dell and takes pride in being named "best of breed" of all HR people leaders within that organization. Stef has worked in many industries including Consumer Products, Technology, Services, Business Process Outsourcing, Automotive Dismantling and Metals Recycling.

Stef is a "natural" leader who mentors many of her former direct reports and team members. She has a very direct, pragmatic, and caring leadership style and is proud to report that many of her former direct reports have been promoted into key senior leadership positions. She attributes her affinity for leadership and mentoring to being the oldest of five siblings.

Stef currently lives in Atlanta, GA with her 23 year old daughter, Jasmine, a Senior at Georgia State University and 2 Pit Bull puppies, Spike and Precious.
